PORTFOLIO

European equity markets continued their upward trend in February, driven by hopes of an end to the war in Ukraine and an improvement in economic conditions in Europe (German elections, reassuring PMI reports).

In February, the Smart Resources theme recorded the strongest increase, particularly thanks to the sharp rise of its most cyclical stocks, such as Imerys and Wienerberger.

The Digital Impact theme was impacted by the correction in technology stocks, notably Soitec (profit warning) and Be Semiconductors, which was trimmed during the month.

The Better Life theme benefited from potential buyer interest in Gerresheimer, but was affected by the decline of Virbac, despite a reassuring Q4 revenue report. Carl Zeiss Meditec was slightly reinforced (Q1 low point), and we participated in Medincell's capital increase.

Finally, within the Lifestyle theme, MyTheresa continued its strong rise after a solid Q2 earnings report. Luxury stocks also rebounded, supported by better-than-expected Q4 2024 earnings releases.

FOCUS: WIENERBERGER

THEME:

Wienerberger As Europe's leading manufacturer of construction bricks, which emit three times less CO₂ than cement during production, the group also has a complementary business in pipelines (30%).

The new construction markets in Europe and the United States have declined by 40% over the past three years due to the sharp monetary tightening cycle. Cost inflation, particularly in energy, has had a significant impact.

Nevertheless, the group's EBITDA is expected to be 40% above 2019 levels by 2025, according to consensus estimates, driven by a strong pricing and cost management strategy, as well as hedging strategies.

Housing remains a fundamental need that is currently underserved given low volumes and is expected to benefit from social pressure for a recovery. The decline in interest rates is already driving a rebound in certain markets, such as the UK and Eastern Europe, while the group is well-positioned to participate in Ukraine's reconstruction.

Despite having a high-quality business model in construction and a strong focus on return on invested capital, the stock is currently trading at a 2025 P/E of 10.1, representing a 25% discount compared to its 10-year median.
